

CITY HALL SITE.

An Injunction Asked to Stop Work in Washington Park.

The Smiths Heirs Commence Proceedings Against the City in the Circuit Court.

They Claim That the City, in Using the Square for a City Hall Site, Has Forfeited Its Right to the Property, as Such Action Is in Violation of the Agreement by Which It Was Conveyed—The Whole Suit Will Hinge on the Meaning of the Phrase Public Square—What City Counselor Bell Says.

An injunction suit was filed in the Circuit Court this morning against the City of St. Louis by Gibson, Bond & Gibson, representing the heirs of the original owners of Washington Park, on Twelfth street, the site proposed for the new City Hall, excavations for which have already begun. Several years ago, when Washington Park was spoken of as a site for a new City Hall, the heirs of Thomas T. Smith, who sold the property to the city in 1849 for a public park, threatened to sue the city for the property if any attempt was made to put the ground to any other use than that of an open public park or square. Every time the subject has come up since then, the heirs have repeated the threat, but no attention was paid to it. City Counselor Bell looked into the matter and found the ordinance of 1849 and the deed given the city wherein it is shown that $25,000 cash was given Mr. Smith by the city for the property, which was then outside the city limits. Mr. Bell decided that the property had been well paid for and translated the agreement between the city and Smith to mean that the property should be used for public purposes and could not be sold. The erection of a City Hall in the park would not be in violation of the contract. On this the Municipal Assembly decided on the park as the place for a City Hall, and men are now at work excavating foundations. The heirs represented by L. Chouteau Smith tried to stop the work by bringing this suit, but attention being paid to them they filed suit this morning and ask for writ of injunction to stop the city from using the park as a public square. The petitioners are L. Chouteau Smith, Philomena S. Larned, a widow; Amantia Young, wife of Karl Young, of Kentucky; Anna Pope Smith, unmarried; Thomas F. Smith, George W. Smith, and Karl Young. The defendants are the City of St. Louis and Wm. F. Thomas, the contractor who is making the excavations.

THE PETITION. The petition begins by stating that the plaintiffs for cause of action aver that in the year 1849 and for many years prior Thomas T. Smith was the possessor in fee of a piece of land containing about 10 acres, bounded north by Market street, east by Twelfth street, south by Clark street, and south by Clark street, containing six acres. The lot was assigned to Gabriel S. Chouteau, one of the heirs of the late Thomas T. Smith, by the commission appointed by the Circuit Court of St. Louis County to divide the mill tract of the estate of Chouteau. Gabriel S. Chouteau sold his lot to Thomas T. Smith, a copy of the deed of which is on record in the Recorder's office.

In 1849, it being desirable that a public square or park should be provided for the recreation and enjoyment of the citizens of St. Louis, and it being willing to convey his land to the city for that specific purpose, he made a public square, and in pursuance of the provisions of an ordinance passed by the city authorities and numbered 1829. The ordinance authorized the purchase of Thomas T. Smith a certain lot near the corporate limits of the city, the title to which was to be indefeasible. The ordinance reads:

On the title of the said lot being vested in the city, it shall be and the said lot or piece of ground is hereby declared to be forever a public square for the use of the city of St. Louis, and on no plea or pretext whatsoever shall it be diverted from the purpose for which it was intended, and to make this declaration irrevocable the deed of purchase shall guarantee to the city, his heirs and assigns, as well as to the citizens of St. Louis, that it shall be a public square for the use of the city of St. Louis forever. Sec. 4 of the ordinance says that the said public square, when it shall become a public square, shall be kept under such regulations as from time to time the City Council deem it proper to make and shall be called Washington Square. The ordinance was approved November 29, 1849.

On December 1, 1849, two days after the ordinance became a law, the petitioners, further state that the term "public square" as used in the ordinance was understood to mean a park and the deed was made with the understanding that the said land should forever remain an open square in the nature of a park for the free use and enjoyment of the inhabitants of this city. Immediately after the transfer the city laid out the ground as a park by making walks, planting trees and erecting a fountain in the center. Since then, the plaintiffs claim that the city has treated the property as a park and placed it under the care of the Park Commissioner.

For fifty years, the city has treated the property as a park. In 1883 Thomas T. Smith died, leaving as his heirs and representatives, L. Chouteau Smith, Philomena S. Larned and Karl Young. The heirs of the said Karl Young, leaving four children, Anna Pope Smith, Thomas F. Smith, George W. Smith and Amantia Smith Young, wife of Karl Young.

Being informed that the city intended to destroy the park on Washington Square and erect a public building thereon, the plaintiffs caused a notice to be served on the city, claiming that the city had forfeited its right to the property by its action in destroying the park and the legal rights of the heirs of Thomas T. Smith. This notice was served by the Sheriff on Mayor Bell and George Burnett, president of the Board of Public Improvements, on July 1, 1890.

Notwithstanding this notice, it is said, and in violation of its agreement and plaintiffs' rights, the city has proceeded to erect a public park, and has entered into a contract with W. F. Thomas for the construction of the City Hall, and the foundation work on the site of the City Hall has been commenced.

The plaintiffs further state that the defendants are now tearing up trees and grass and digging up soil, much to the injury of the plaintiffs and to the detriment of the city and the citizens in general who are asked to have the city erect a public square. The original condition and of the building is built in its old location. They ask further that the city be compelled to put the building in its old location and to have the building built in its old location. They ask further that the city be compelled to put the building in its old location and to have the building built in its old location.

for fifty years has kept the square for a public park, and has held it as such. There was an ordinance passed at the time of the purchase of the property in 1849, in which the money for the purchase is appropriated on condition that the property be used as a public park forever.

City Counselor Bell was asked if he thought anything could be done which would prevent the building of the new City Hall in Washington Park. He said: "No, there will be no difficulty whatever. The city has a perfect right to put the building on that property. Fifty years ago the city paid $25,000 for that piece of land. It was a high price at the time, and for a long while it went by the name of Bud's folly, as Bud at that time was Controller of the city. To get the money to buy it he had to draw up an ordinance providing that it would be used for public purposes and to be under the control of what was then the Council and is now the Municipal Assembly. There was no misunderstanding of terms when it was decided to put the building there. Washington Park will still be beautified and decorated with a few public buildings, and we do not intend to lose a day on the work. The claims of the Smith heirs cannot stand in our way, and in any event there is nothing in the deed or the purchase ordinance which provides that anything should revert to them, no matter what the city does."

"We looked into the matter very fully before we decided to erect the new City Hall, and we had a perfect right to go there with the new building. The heirs of the City Hall Commission, a member of the City Hall Commission, was of the opinion that the work could not be stopped."

SPECIAL AGENT BAIN. Mr. Bain will have charge of the revision of the Census Returns. WASHINGTON, D. C., July 19.—The Secretary of the Interior to-day, at the request of the Citizens' Committee of St. Louis, asked the Census Bureau to revise the census returns for the city of St. Louis. The revision is to be made on the returns made by the police in an informal canvass of the city to show omissions in the original returns. The special agent detailed to look into the matter of the Kansas City census is expected to return and make report to the Census Bureau here to-day. The change which has followed the recent census is well known to the city. It is a change in the clock-like precision. When through there will be found a deficiency of but few names from the previous census.

Mr. Bain received a private telegram from Washington announcing his appointment, as did also Mr. Weigel. He had a conference with Mr. Weigel and his second in command, the Levee District for a little canvassing. Mr. Weigel has undergone a change of heart and now favors a more complete revision of the census. He has been named as the special agent for the revision of the census. The Citizens' Committee has been named as the special agent for the revision of the census. The Citizens' Committee has been named as the special agent for the revision of the census.

THE CAUTIOUS GERMANS. MEMBERS OF WAITERS' UNION NO. 1 REFUSE TO GO OUT ON A STRIKE. Indignation Expressed by Their Fellow-Craftsmen Who Are Out-The Cooks' Union Still in Existence—Olive for Service at the Southern Hotel—Dialing Room Still Closed—The Situation To-Day.

THE CAUTIOUS GERMANS.

MEMBERS OF WAITERS' UNION NO. 1 REFUSE TO GO OUT ON A STRIKE.

The waiters who are striking members of Union No. 1 (white) and Union No. 2 (colored) are quite indignant at the failure of the German waiters who compose Union No. 1 to keep their promise and strike also. Friday night Union No. 1 met in one of the halls in the Trades and Labor Union building at Fourth and Vale streets. The German waiters' meeting was over by the time they returned and the strikers were made happy by the assurance that in the morning (Saturday) the proprietors of restaurants employing German waiters would be asked to sign an agreement similar to that presented by the American waiters to their employers. If the agreement was not signed, the waiters would strike.

THE WAITERS WOULD STRIKE. Previously Union No. 1 was in a minority of the sympathy of No. 1, but they regarded the announcement of this determination as a practical show of sympathy. Saturday morning came, and the agreement was presented to several proprietors of restaurants employing German waiters. The average was paid these waiters a regular wage, and the hours are from twelve to sixteen per day. In some a portion of the force is off on Sunday, the men securing this holiday in rotation. The waiters also have a "split watch," which reduces the hours of attendance to ten or eleven hours per day. Half of the men are married, and some have quite large families. Their small wages are supplemented by tips, which are the source of income is gradually disappearing, the average being not over $1 per week now. Some waiters are getting as low as $10 or $12 per week. Until recently nearly all the waiters were Germans, but now even educated in Europe, where the waiters' living depends entirely on the tips he receives.

THE TIPS HE RECEIVES. The free-lance American waiters, who are not members of any union, are rapidly disappearing, and the waiters find that they must depend on tips to support families. The waiters' union, which has been organized for some time, has been successful in securing a minimum rate of wages at $10 per week, the men doing a full day's work. The union has also secured a regular wage, and the hours are from twelve to sixteen per day. In some a portion of the force is off on Sunday, the men securing this holiday in rotation. The waiters also have a "split watch," which reduces the hours of attendance to ten or eleven hours per day. Half of the men are married, and some have quite large families. ANOTHER CAUSE FOR INDIGNATION. On the part of the striking waiters is a story printed this morning that the "Cooks' Union" had been organized for some time, and the waiters find that they must depend on tips to support families. The waiters' union, which has been organized for some time, has been successful in securing a minimum rate of wages at $10 per week, the men doing a full day's work.
